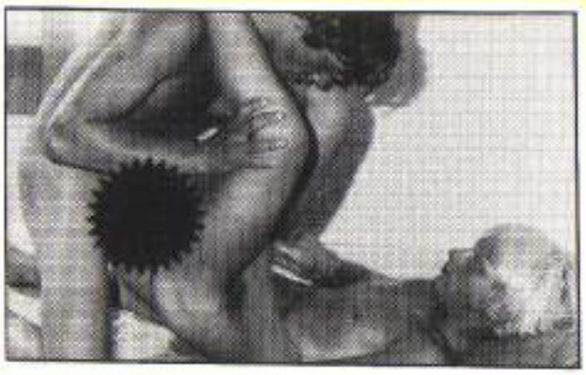
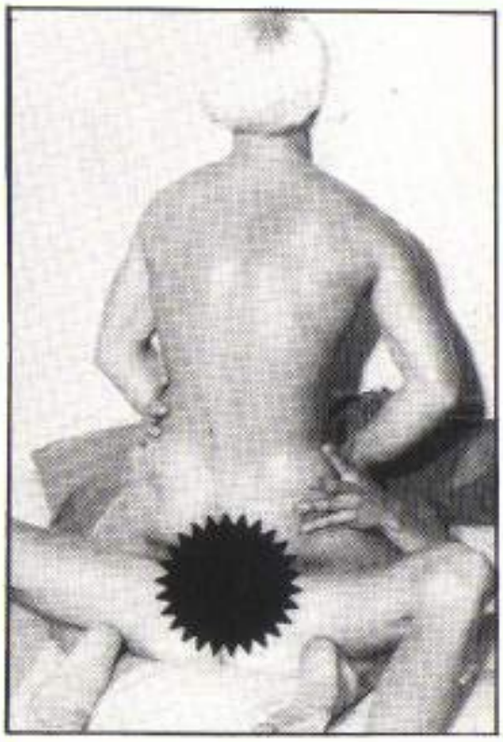
Guidebook to Sexual Positions Between Consenting Adult Males

by: jj proferes





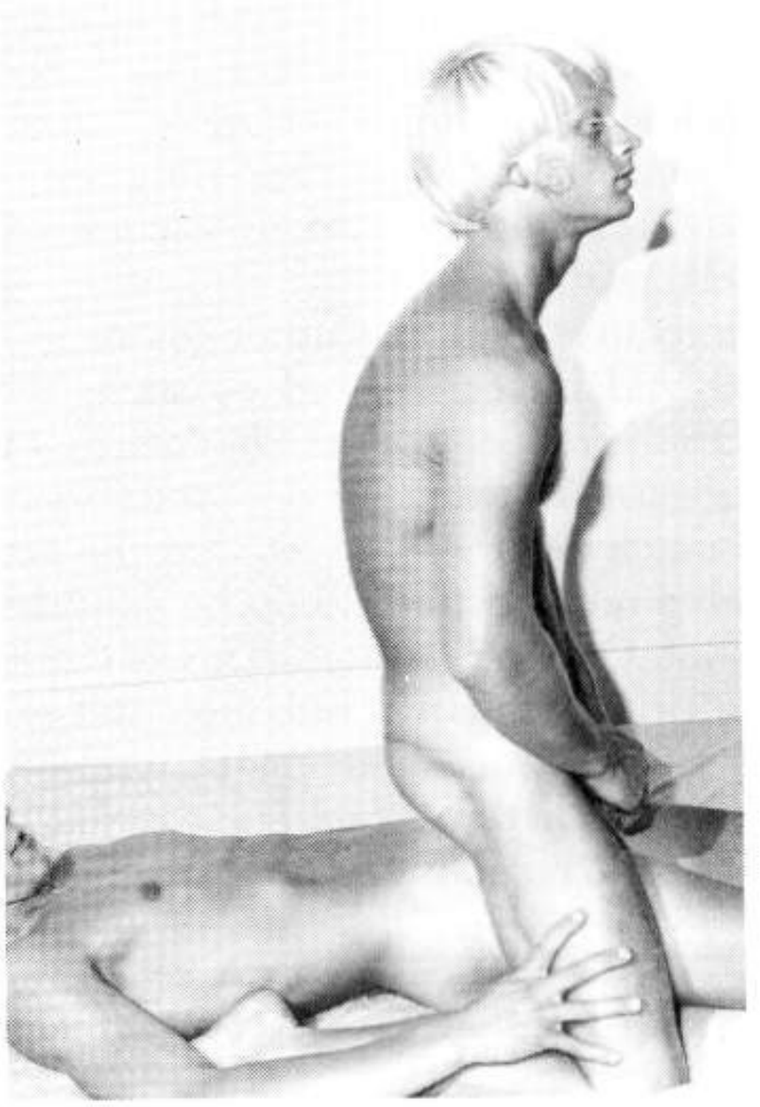
THE FIRST AUTHENTIC GUIDEBOOK, COMPLETE WITH ILLUSTRATIONS ON SEXUAL POSITIONS FOR EVERY MALE-MALE RELATIONSHIP!

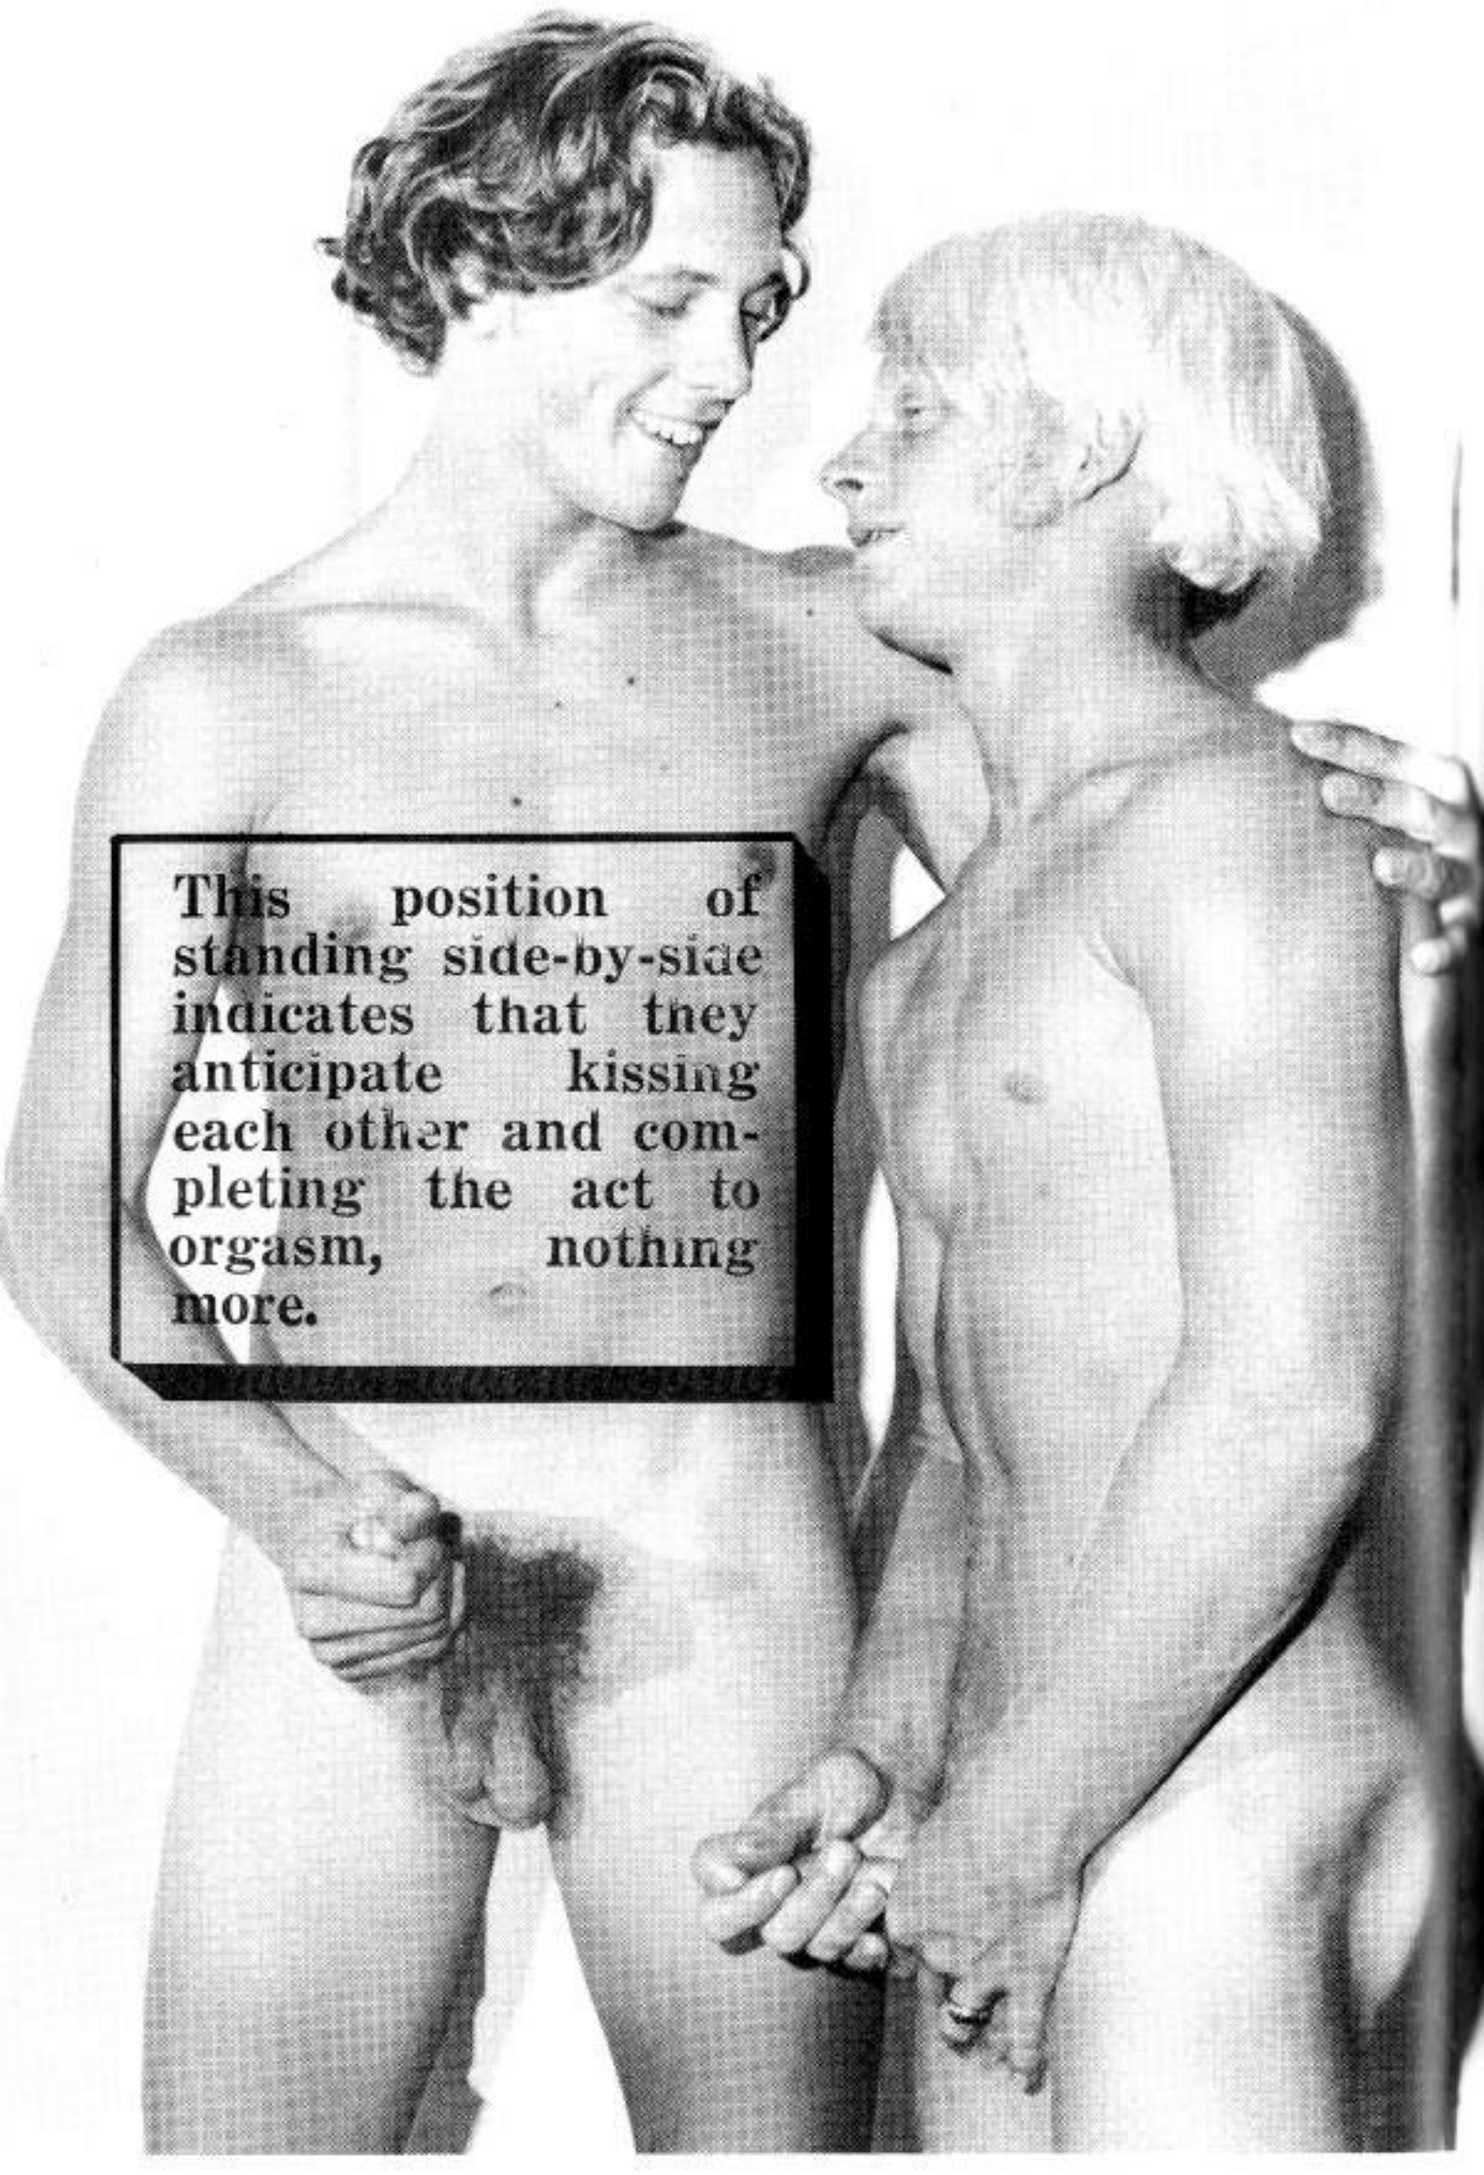
Let's face it, are those males who seduce their wives anally perverted? Such a thought is absurd! Then what of two males?

In guiding the partners in their love situation, it is of utmost importance that love-play (between men) is just as important in any relationship and should be practiced.

It must be emphasized here, implicitly, that this writer and publisher do not recommend, condone, or suggest that sexual relations with minors are in any way acceptable. Minors are unaware of their emotional feelings and their sexual leanings and to tamper with them or to defile their innocence is contrary to morality itself.

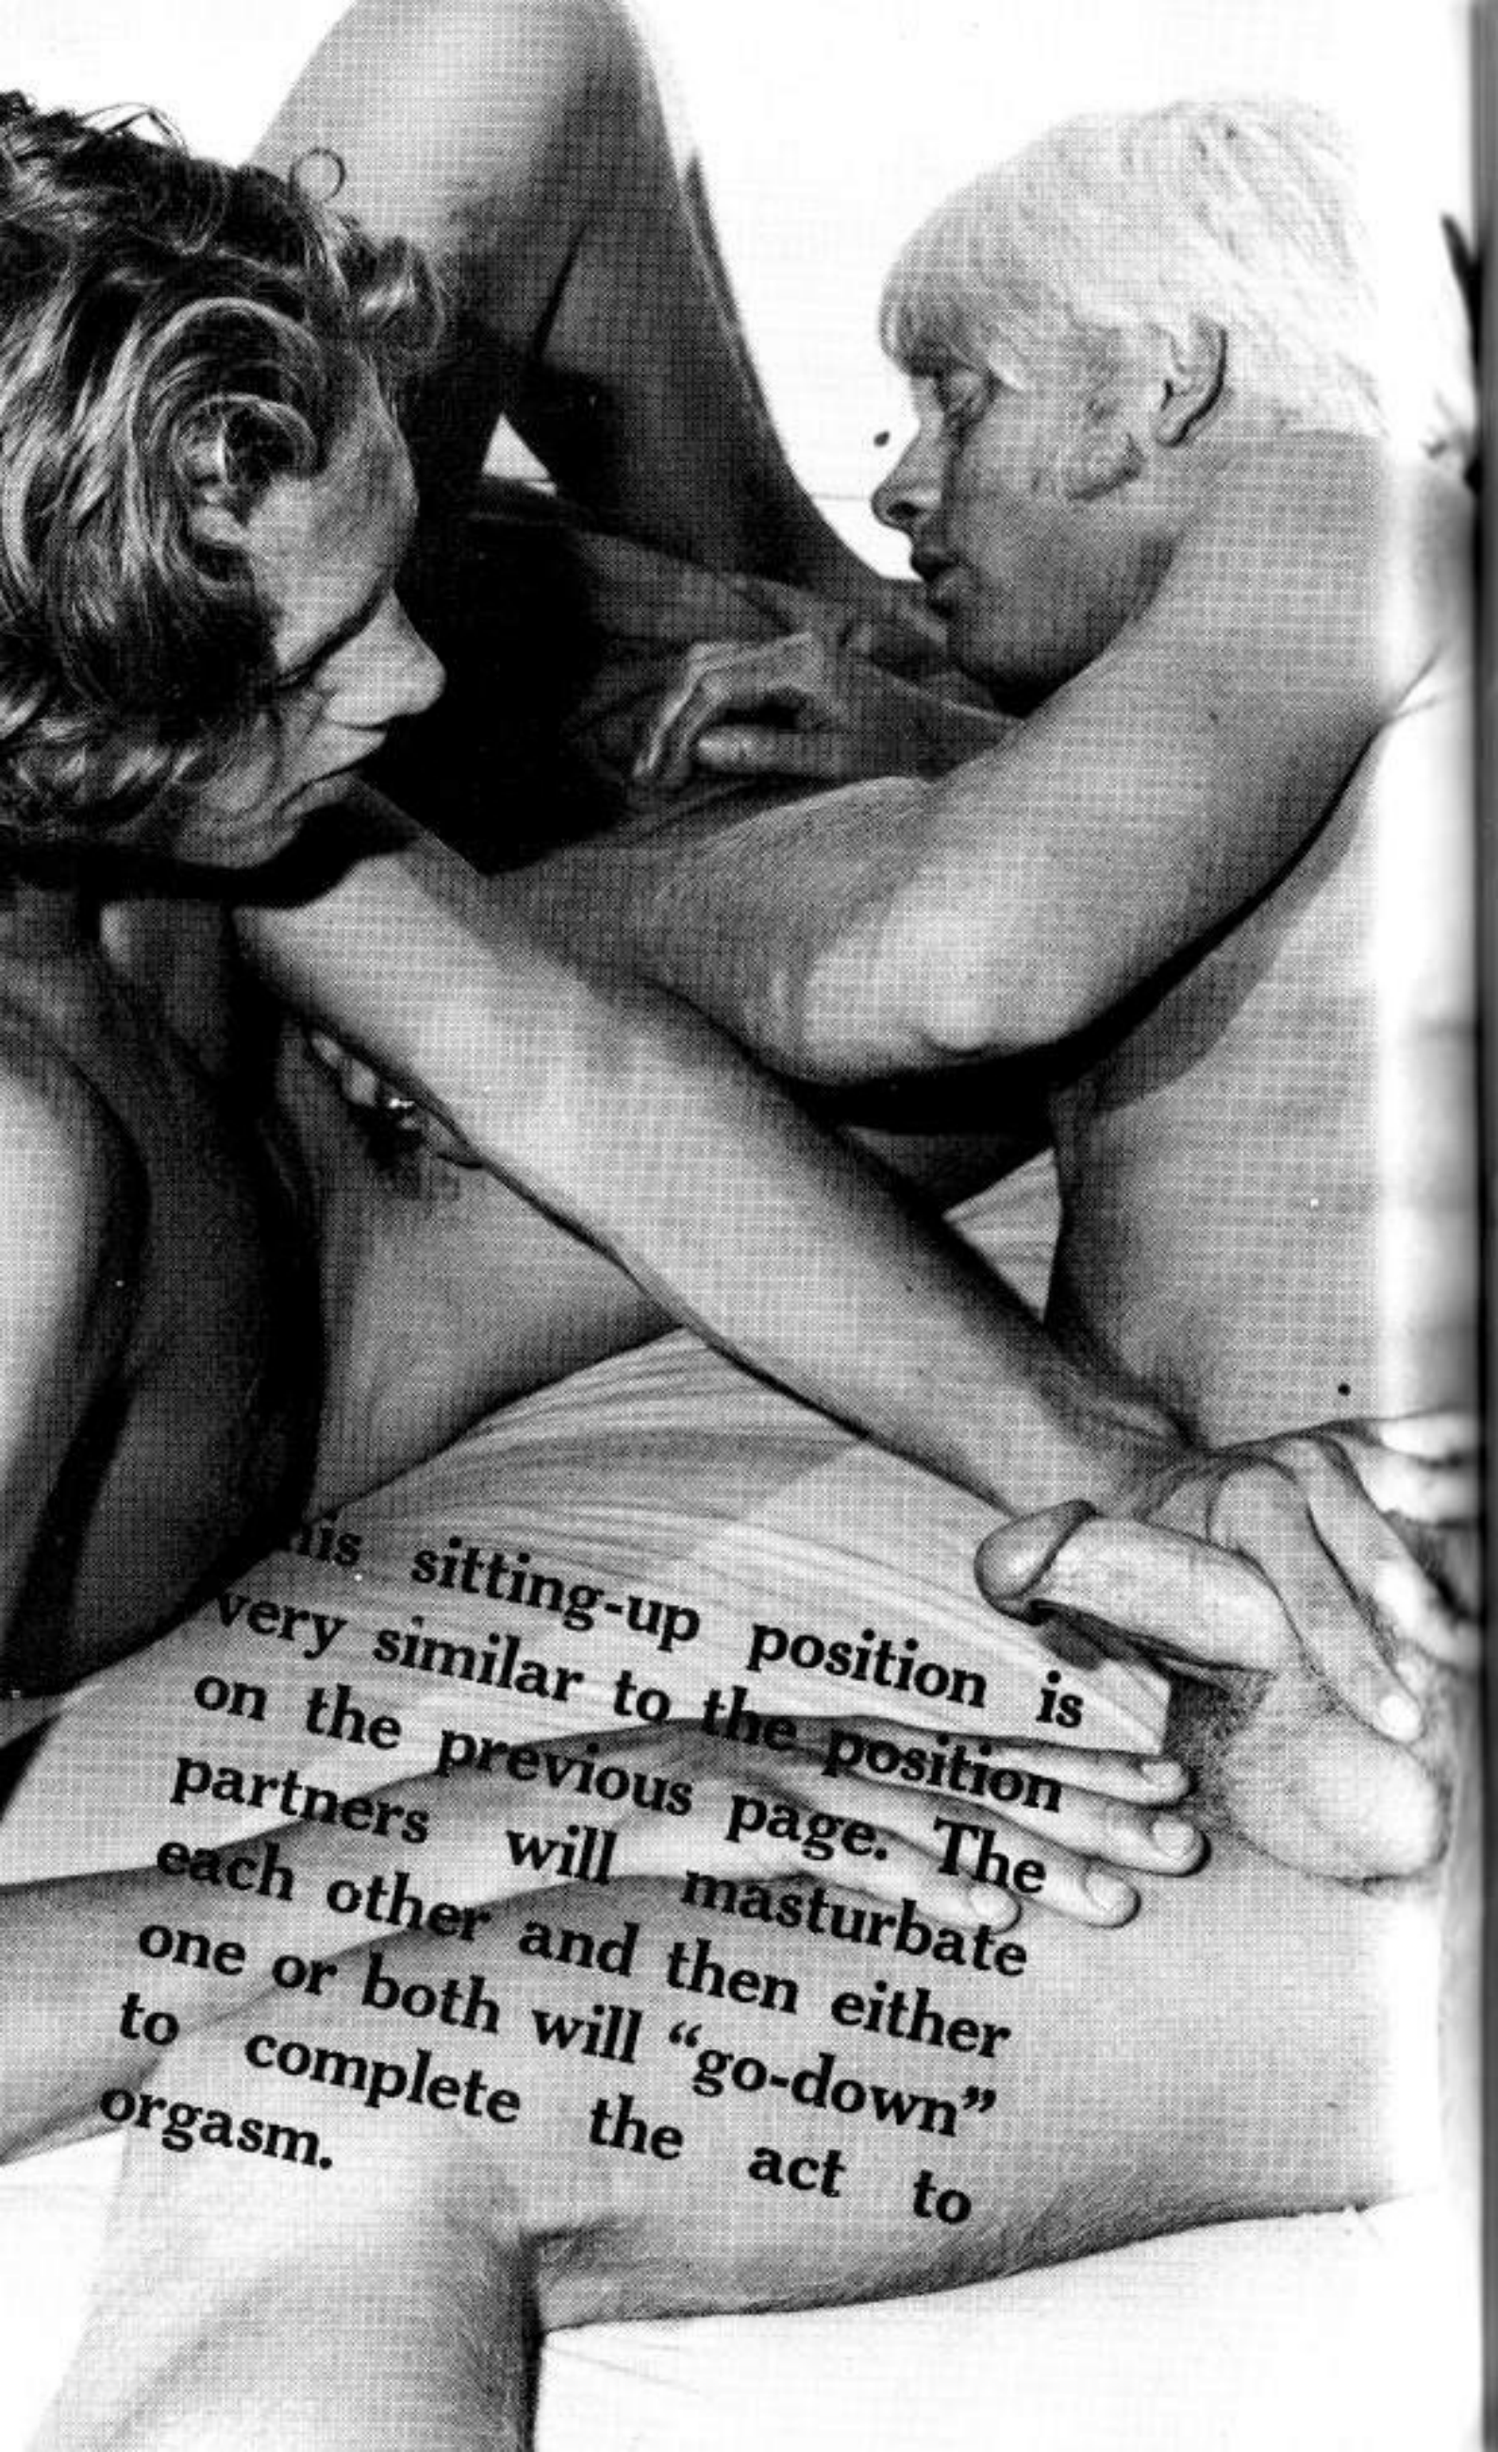
However, upon reaching adulthood, and upon consent of both partners involved, the love which flowers between them (whether it be heterosexual or homosexual) can become a beautiful relationship which both partners will enjoy and remember forever.





This position of standing side-by-side indicates that they anticipate kissing each other and completing the act to orgasm, nothing more.

The lying side-by-side position is preparatory for the soixante-neuf position. They begin by masturbating each other and conclude in the act of orality.



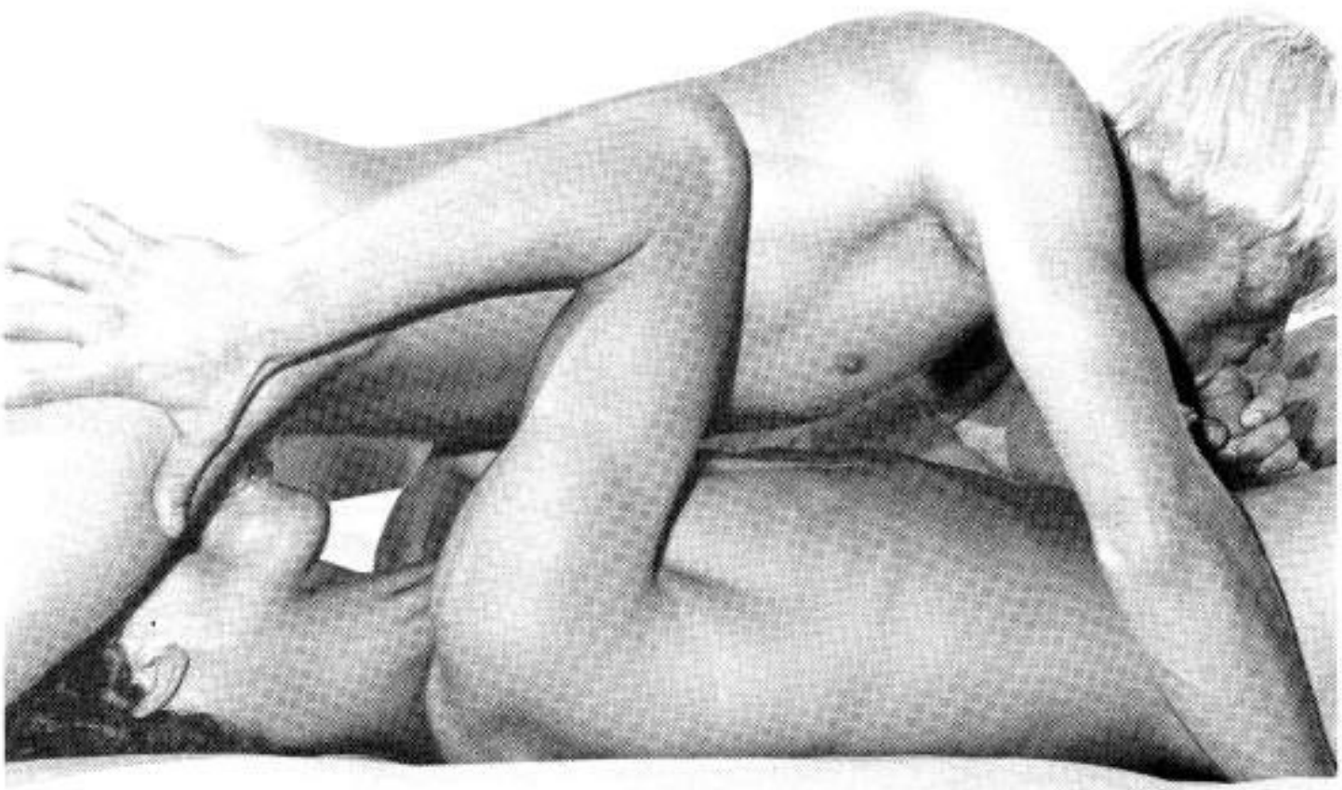
his sitting-up position is very similar to the position on the previous page. The partners will masturbate each other and then either one or both will "go-down" to complete the act to orgasm.

This "I - love - you - do - you - love - me?" position is usually accented by love bites, kisses and undearing whispers while each partner fondles the other, then one will take the aggressor role and go down on the other.

This intimate position suggests "just one more time before we go to sleep" where both partners are too tired to do each other and are too aroused to go to sleep, they slowly masturbate their own organs and ejaculate on their own bodies.

In the top photo, the masturbatory act is usually followed by the aggressor partner moving forward and seducing the other youth, while in the other photo the aggressor climbs over and forces his partner's legs back to enter him anally.

THESE two photographs show the advantages of the soixante-neuf position. The partner underneath has the distinct advantage of feeling and fondling the other partner, while the other has to suupport his weight on his hands and knees.



The standing position is more popular for the "quickie" type of encounter. It permits the aggressive partner to reach up and stimulate the testes or the anus, thus making for a more exciting orgasm.

This standing position permits the aggressor to fondle his partner's buttocks while the passive partner can run his fingers through the other's hair or guide the movements of his head to the pace that satisfies him.

This lying side-to-side position is most popular in that the partners are able to use both hands in completing the sex act.

These sitting-up positions are also popular. The passive partner only needs to sit up and watch the action while the aggressor leans or crouches over, or squats between the legs of his partner.

These position do not necessarily promote emotional involvement between the pair, but satisfies both their needs.

RIMMING*

The act of rimming (anal-licking) serves several purposes, though not an end in itself. It stimulates a partner who might be fellating his partner, or it may prepare the partner for the act which might follow, the act of anal coitus.

For some, this is an exciting method of stimulation and arouses their passions to fever pitch, but the act must be followed quickly before the spirit of the stimulation diminishes.

The positions shown here are primarily for stimulation while being fellated. When fellatio is not involved and the "rimming" is done as foreplay to anal coitus, the passive partner may lie on his back with legs pushed upward, or he may rest on his haunches while his partner crouches behind him to use his tongue, and then move up simply and enter his anus with his phallus.

ANAL COITUS

Regardless of the social stigma against anal coitus, many men enjoy this sort of relationship, either actively or passively.

In the conclusion of the book "Anal Eroticism" it states that "many people have an anal fixation which they retained from childhood. After so many years, depending on the age of the subject, of course, it becomes more difficult to remove such urges from the libido of an individual. Thus, the person with such an aberration (if it be that) should, rather, learn to live with it!

*H. Erick Lester, Ph.D., Anal Eroticism, (Washington, D. C.: Guild Press, Ltd., 1970), p. 148.

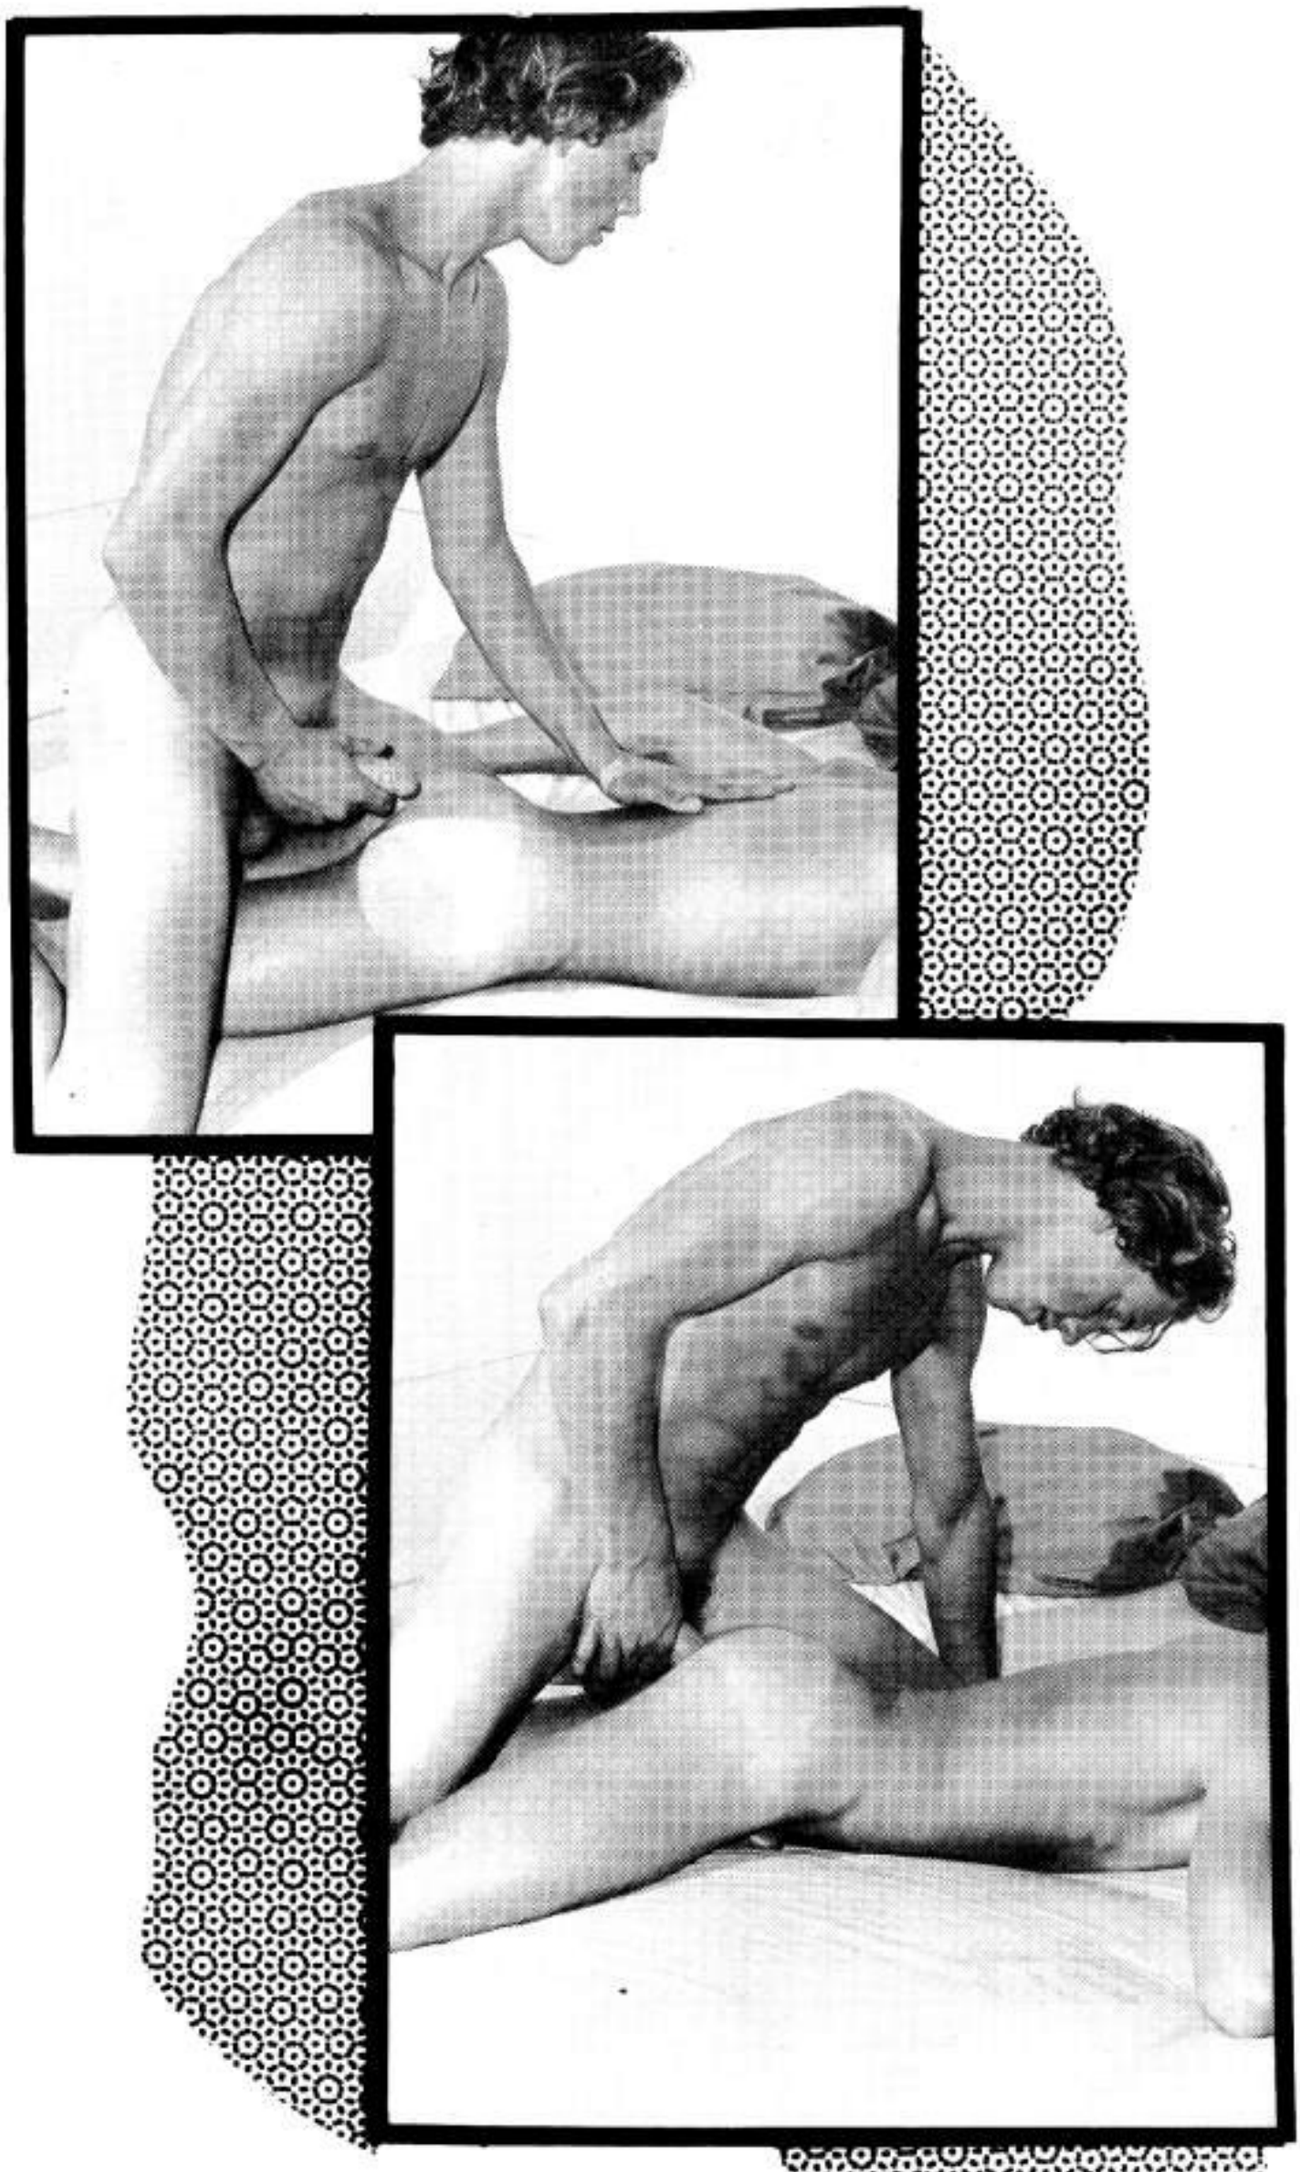
"As for whether this aberration is perverted (a redundant question, no doubt, many will say!) let us examine what sexologists say of it. Dr. Anthony Havil says:

"'In France, where every young man used to be trained by a mistress who was usually older than himself and who learned the art of lovemaking from an older man, the art of kissing was brought to a very high degree. The tongue is an important instrument for making love. Also, all varieties of sexual intercourse to which each partner agrees are permitted . . .

"'Anal intercourse is quite often indulged in . . .!"

Thus, we see the acceptability of anal coitus. The male-male relationship is more popular than the male-female. Some of the males who prefer this method of sex eventually crave it and some even have the power to have an orgasm while being anally stimulated.

For those who prefer this method, it is important to study the positions illustrated in this chapter, for they will make for a more enjoyable relationship.



When the partners are in the "mated-position," many of the passive partners enjoy being stimulated at this point. Some resort to masturbation while others enjoy biting, kissing or sucking.

This "standing-up leaning-over" union usually occurs in moments of excitement when passions are too aroused to allow them time to retreat to the nearest available bed, or in the bathroom.

This method is extremely popular out of the home (picnics, rest rooms, etc.)

THIS is the "impaling-position". It is peculiar because in this position (whether facing away, or toward the partner) the passive partner becomes the aggressor!

In this position, the aggressor may be lying on his back with an erection. The other partner can squat over and impale himself on the other's phallus. It is then his duty to provide the action.

In these photographs we see the passive partner masturbating himself. Some prefer this, wanting to expel their sperm onto the partner's chest, arousing their sexual desires and making for a more exciting encounter.

This is the "guess-who?" position. The aggressor approaches from behind and enters his partner in a standing position. It then gives him access to his partner's genitals for stimulating purposes or for the purpose of masturbating him as well.

In these two "impaling-positions" the passive partner is sufficiently away from the aggressor so that the aggressor has freedom of movement and the passive partner may remain unmoving while the other provides the "action".

In these two "impaling-positions" the passive partner is sufficiently away from the aggressor so that the aggressor has freedom of movement and the passive partner may remain unmoving while the other provides the "action."

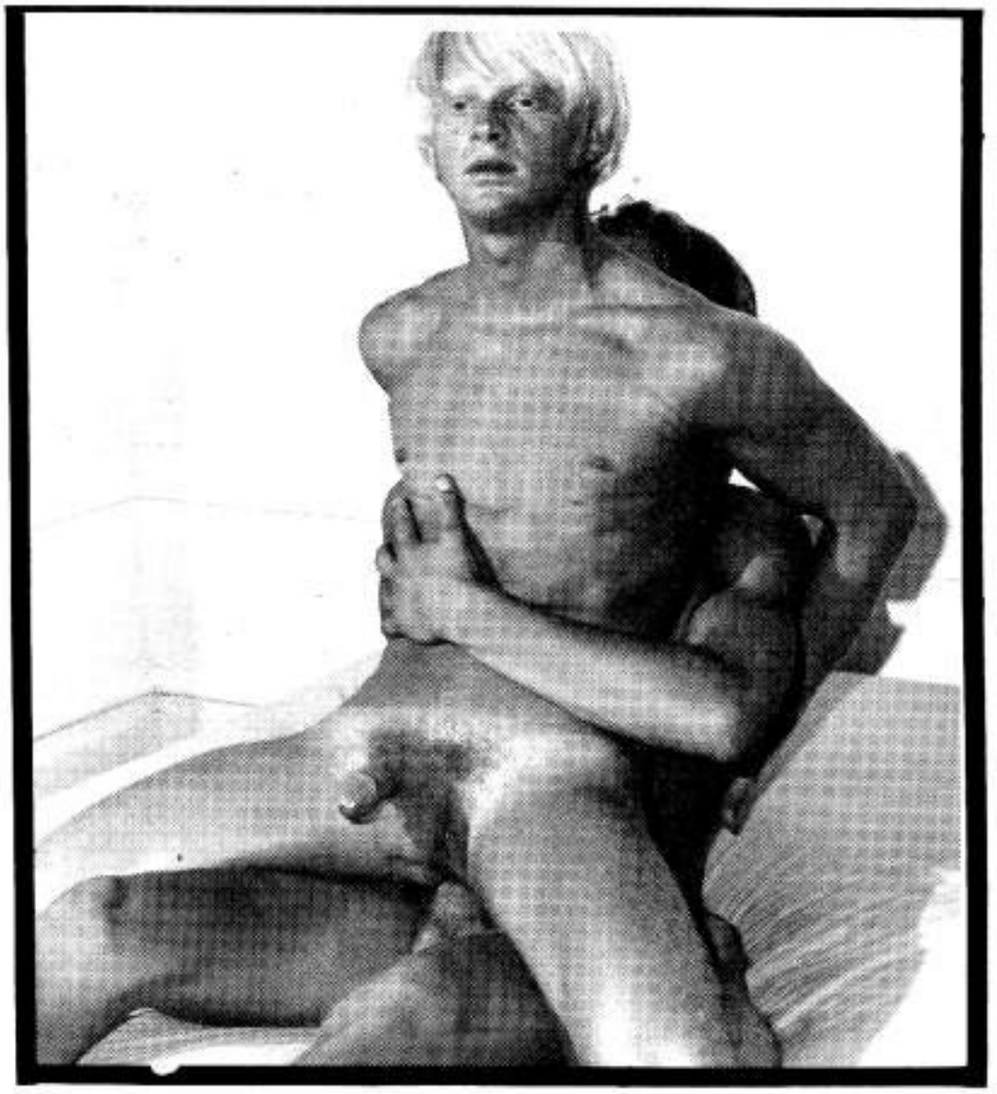
The "legs-up" position is very popular in that it lessens the pain upon entry.

The position shown on the opposite page is primarily practiced on the edge of the bed where one leg is raised and the partner is standing on the floor. This is not the most comfortable position, but it is practiced where space is limited.

In this "upraised-hips" position, many aggressors prefer cushioning their partner's buttocks on their haunches, while others prefer using the pillow to serve that same purpose. In either case, this position is more comfortable for the passive partner and he can respond more enthusiastically than in any other position.

Using the "upraised-position," these partners relax after entry is completed and the aggressor has a hand free to masturbate his partner. Thus, his host position is used to full advantage.

This is the "straddling-impaling" position. In this position, the passive partner can lean over and excite his partner with erotic loveplay, or he can masturbate himself while the other partner is working his hips.



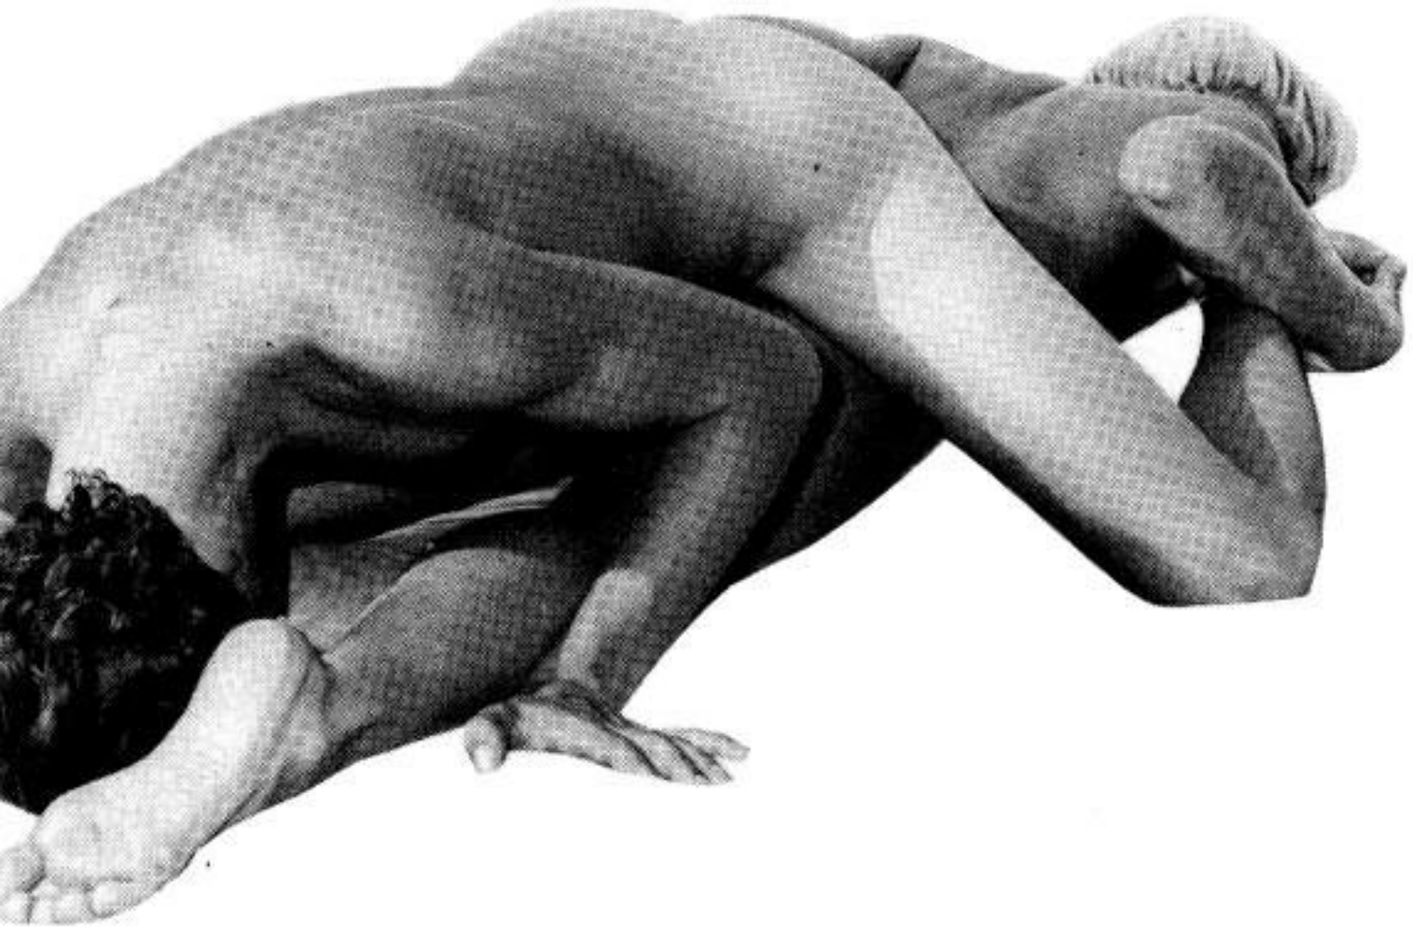
In this "straddling-impaling" position, we see the passive partner positioning his legs in the forward position after the host has entered him and from this position he is able to raise and lower his hips placing all his weight on his heels and hands.

"Ankles-on-shoulders" position.

This popular form of analism relieves some of the pressure and much of the pain in the performance of anal coitus. The sphincter opens easily in this position and the host experiences little trouble in entering his partner.

In this refinement of the "raise - and - lock" position, we see the passive partner masturbating himself before permitting entry. Many men prefer this method of arousal so they can enjoy coitus to its fullest when entry has finally been completed.

UNUSUAL positions



In these two "reverse-entry" positions, it must be remembered that although they are different, adding variety and spice to a sexual relationship, they are difficult to execute.

Besides being dexterous, the passive partner must desire such a position.

Below we see another form of the "reverse-entry" position. It is not recommended for older partners, the obese, or those with physical conditions which do not permit such gymnastics.

Opposite: This "lap-sitting-method" is the most popular sitting position of anal coitus. The passive partner merely lowers himself onto his partner's erect phallus, impaling himself. The action with this comes easily and naturally.

This "chair-position" is unique in its simplicity and intimacy!
This is for a room without a bed, or for those who are tired of the same-old-routine. It is a must for those who want a new thrill!

This "vis-a-vis" position is usually referred to as "Prove to me you love me".

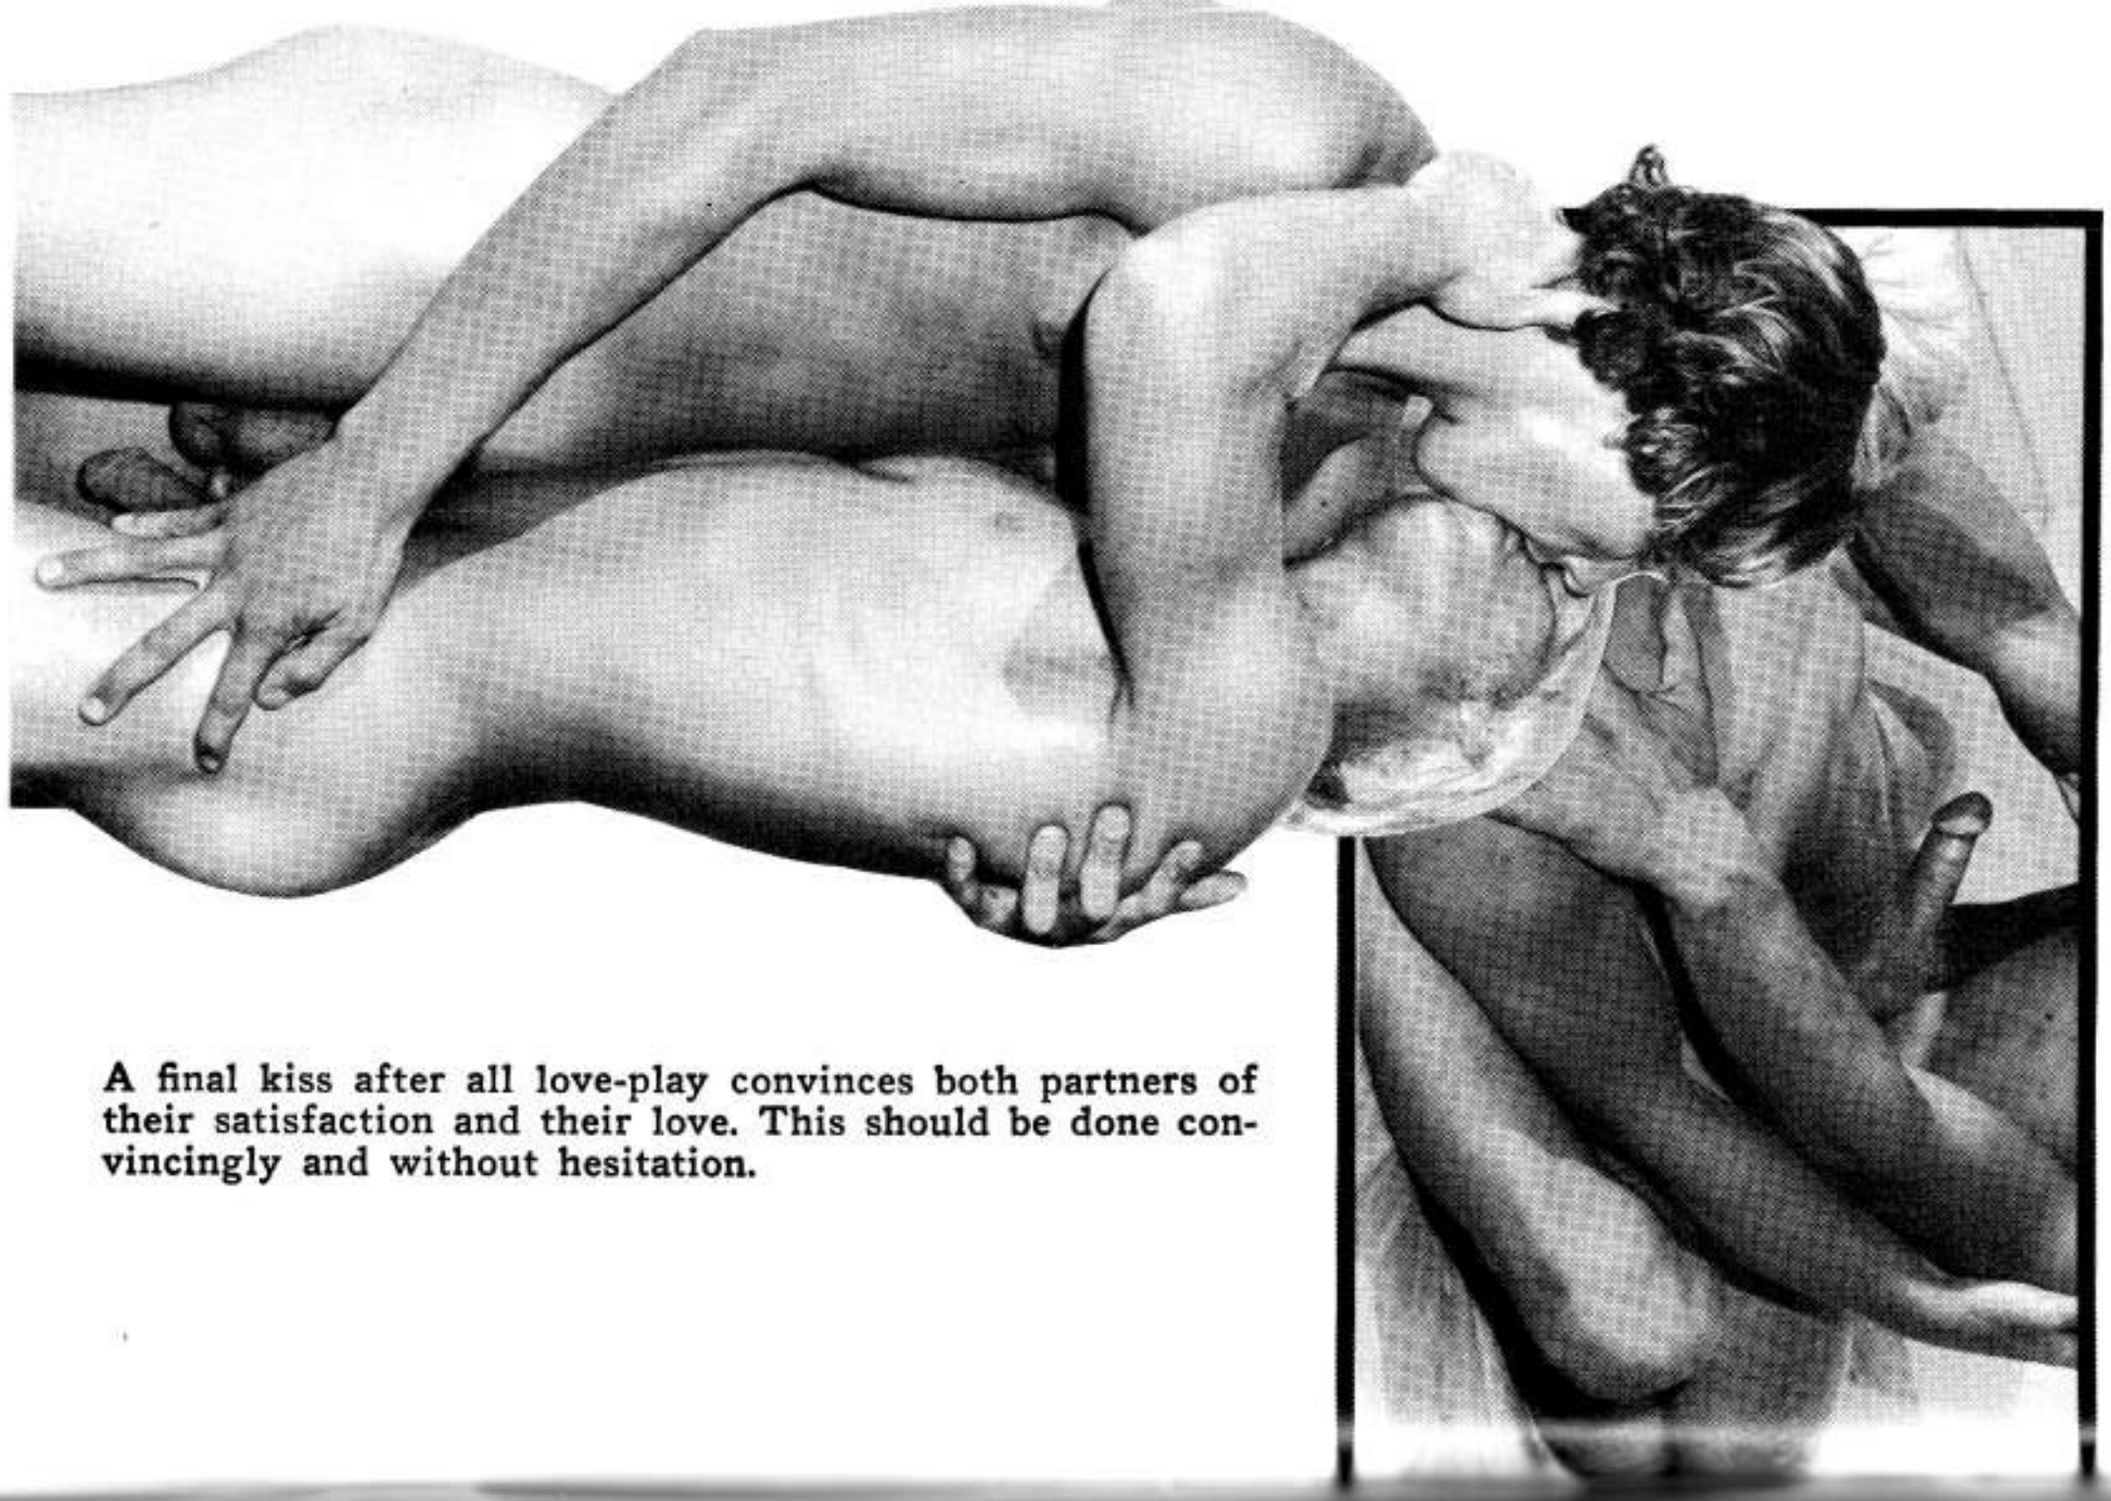
The partners are able to embrace and kiss while in the actual act of coitus. Some of the movement is restricted, but the loveplay far more makes up for what is lost in action.



A final kiss after all love-play convinces both partners of their satisfaction and their love. This should be done convincingly and without hesitation.
